

October 4, 2018 issue

In this issue: Empennage kit updates, Team Rocket forum migration, builder news, builder assistance news, news from the Team, and more... read on.

Mk3 empennage news: Adam Thomason is working on getting a few CAD files rounded up for our use. Here are some exploded views that should aid in identifying parts and placements. I have these in PDF format, and also a nifty video format that shows the parts actually moving into their places. I'll get those posted on the forum soon. In the meantime, these should be helpful.

Builder's Assistance news: Ryan Marshall tells me the following:

"I've sat down and ran the numbers on me building a set of wings and a fuselage to a quick build state. I believe that I can get a set of wings done for $9,000.00 and the fuselage done for $10,000.00. This is just a labor quote but it includes the time to prep and prime all parts. As for other consumables I believe that they would run about $500 per kit. This includes primer, fuel tank sealant, Scotchbrite, etc.

I talked to Van's and asked about a RV-4 wing kit and they are about 6 months out on kits right now due to parts shortages and limited production runs.

Just so we are clear this would be for me personally building these parts, not Synergy Air. I'm confident in these numbers and if you want to post these to your website you are more than welcome to do so."

If that interests you, contact Ryan directly.

For what it's worth, Team Rocket doesn't recommend any particular shop over another. We just provide the names of interested shops and let you negotiate the rest. Other builder assist shops can be found on our website at Builder Assistance Shops

Builder projects: Ray Ward's project continues to move along rapidly. I hope to drop in at his shop for a visit in a couple of weeks, when I pick up my RV-4.... see below.

Builder projects: Robert Thurmond's project is also moving quickly. I believe that they are working on the cowling, gear alignment, and other related front end work at this time.

If you're too busy to finish your own F4 Raider, then one option is to buy back the RV-4 that you built back in 1994. So I did. I pick it up next week. Vince
